Turtle Restoration & Turtle Conservation Pond

The restoration and conservation of eight turtle species, crucial for maintaining aquatic ecosystems, are milestones in the college's commitment to biodiversity preservation. The campus pond becomes a sanctuary for these remarkable creatures, contributing to broader global conservation goals.

Eight species totaling 50 individuals, ranging from vulnerable to critically endangered (IUCN-2021), find a refuge in the campus pond. The conservation status of each species is as follows:

- Pangshura tecta (Indian Roofed Turtle): Vulnerable
- Pangshura tentoria (Indian Tent Turtle): Least Concern
- Lissemys punctata (Indian Flapshell Turtle): Vulnerable
- Goeclemys hamiltonii (Spotted Pond Turtle): Endangered
- Nilssonina gangetica (Indian Softshell Turtle): Endangered
- Nilssonina hurum (Peacock Softshell): Endangered
- Nilssonina nigricans (Black Softshell Turtle): Critically Endangered
- Kachuga sylhetensis (Assam Roofed Turtle): Critically Endangered

Subject: Request for permission to transfer the Turtle Species from Hajo to Pragjyotish College

Respected Sir

At the onset I would like to acknowledge the Managing Committee of Shree Shree Hayagriv Madhav Temple, Hajo for the sincere efforts they have been tendering from time immemorial for the turtle species in the temple pond. There are several highly endangered available in the temple pond and for proper generic conservation of these species and due to lack of place it is an urgent to transfer some of these species. Sir, Pragjyotish College is having two natural ponds which can be used for conservation and breeding of these endangered species. In this context, I would request you to grant permission for transferring these seven endangered species of turtles from Hajo to Pragjyotish College. Further, I would like to inform you that Dr. Jayanta Deka, Assistant Professor of Zoology, Pragjyotish College along with Prof. (Retd.) Dhirendra Kumar Sharma of Gauhati University was working on status and conservation of turtle in Hajo area. Sir, in future Pragjyotish College is planning for setting up a Turtle Breeding Centre for conservation of these species in their natural habitat.

Your positive response to protect this schedule I species is highly solicited.

Thanking you

Yours sincerely
